SALSBURY TO ADDRESS COMMERCIAL CONGRESS

L. K. Salisbury, president of the Memphis Chamber of Commerce, head of a number of large cotton producing organizations in this territory and one of the largest growers of the staple in the world, will deliver an address Jan. 11 on "Cotton Compression" at the invitation of the Southern Commercial Congress, which meets in Baltimore Jan. 8 to 15.

Mr. Salisbury, through his wide experience, is an expert in all phases of cotton and his views on its compression and the marketing of the product and other subjects have been eagerly sought by newspapers, trade organs, magazines and other publications. He has never responded to any of these requests and his presentation of his compression at the Baltimore meeting will represent something entirely new.

He believes the time has come for radical changes in the organization of cotton for the market and he will advocate such reforms in his address as he believes will be to the great benefit of all interested with the most important industry in the Southern states.

A number of other prominent members of the Memphis Chamber of Commerce will attend this meeting as representatives of the local body.

ACCUSES HUSBAND OF CRUELTY; SUES

Declaring that her husband, W. J. alias J. B. Johnson, threatened her life with a knife, treated her cruelly and maliciously and deserted her and her two children, Mrs. Maggie B. Johnson Thursday filed a bill for divorce in the chancery court. She also asks that Johnson be restrained from selling their automobile until this cause is heard, and seeks to establish the Illinois Central railroad from paying him wages due him for work as a car repairer.

ARRANGES FOR BANK TO HANDLE COUNTY FUNDS

Arrangements for a bank or banks to handle the county funds for the year 1919 are being made by J. F. McDonald, chairman of the county court. Previously the county trustee had handled the county funds, and such funds have not produced any interest for the county. During the session of the legislature in 1917, however, an act was passed authorizing the county to place its funds in banks on interest. This will mean a considerable saving for the county, as a large cash balance is always on hand that will now bring interest.
